1

2 ## Abstract

3   A recording target error rate is selected for one or more of data storage

4 devices, and for each data storage device, a dither value is determined for each

5 read/write head in the data storage device, wherein for each head, using a dither

6 value for writing data, essentially provides the selected recording target error for 7 all the heads.